

Columbia Nursery

Pet and Child Safe Houseplants

A common concern for plant enthusiasts is whether their houseplants are safe for pets and children. As indoor plants become an integral part of modern living spaces, it's important to choose varieties that are non-toxic to both furry companions and little ones. Whether you're just starting out or you're a seasoned plant lover, it's possible to create a vibrant indoor garden that's safe for the whole family. To help you make informed choices, we've compiled an alphabetical list of houseplants that are generally considered non-toxic to pets and children.

- African Violet
- Air Plants (Tillandsia)
- Aluminum Plant
- Baby Tears
- Bromeliad
- Burrow's Tail
- Calathea
- Cast Iron Plant
- Chinese Money Plant
- Christmas Cactus
- Echeveria
- Fern
- Fittonia
- Friendship Plant
- Gloxinia
- Goldfish Plant
- Grape Ivy
- Haworthia
- Hoya
- Lipstick Plant
- Money Tree
- Musa Dwarf Banana Tree
- Palm Tree
- Peperomia
- Phalaenopsis Orchid
- Polka Dot Plant
- Ponytail Palm
- Prayer Plant
- Sensitive Plant
- Spider Plant
- String of Hearts
- String of Pearls
- Stromanthe Triostar
- Venus Fly Trap
- Zebra Plant